Description
we need to define and fix the names for the cdm products, currently there is a big variety in inconsistency in the names. Here is the list of products:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• CDM Library: CDM Library</li><li>• CDM Store: CDM Store (only for the database and direct access to the database itself)</li><li>• CDM Server: CDM Server (for the API that communicates with the outside)</li><li>• CDM DataPortal: CDM DataPortal</li><li>• Taxonomic Editor =&gt; "TaxEditor" or "Taxonomic Editor" if long form is needed.</li><li>• UTIS: UTIS</li><li>• EDIT Platform: EDIT Platform (for the platform in general)</li><li>• CDM: CDM (only in technical context and only for questions referring to the data model)</li><li>• EDIT MapService</li></ul>

History

#1 - 03/04/2010 03:14 PM - Andreas Kohlbecker

- Subject changed from CDM product names to DISCUSS - CDM product names

#2 - 01/10/2011 11:03 AM - Andreas Müller

- Priority changed from Priority08 to Priority14

#3 - 09/08/2016 09:48 PM - Andreas Müller

- Description updated

- Target version changed from 75 to Update Documentation

#4 - 09/20/2016 03:41 PM - Walter Berendsohn

Taxonomic Editor:

For the Documentation, I had changed the designation "EDITor" to "TaxEditor. However, in the user interface the designation "Taxonomic Editor" is used, for example:

Taxonomic Editor Nightly, Taxonomic Editor Stable, Preferences -> Taxonomic Editor. It's also used as the target folder in the download .zip-file.

I prefer the shorter form.

CDM Data Portal:

In the documentation, I just use data portal to refer to the connected Drupal instance as a whole (including additional pages). I think we should restrict the use of the CDM prefix to the more technical parts of the Platform, i.e. CDM library and CDM store.

Before updating the documentations during the next weeks we should agree on common labels and how to write (e.g. CDM DataPortal in camel case, with space, ...).

Decision is done for TaxEditor (TODO link to ticket).

CDM Library: I suggest to keep as such. (WGB: OK)

CDM DataPortal: I suggest to keep as such as we also use camel case for TaxEditor, so in general we do not avoid camel case. (WGB: OK)

CDM Store: I suggest to use CDM Server. (WGB: In presentations I used the CDM Store more or less analogous to what we now call "database" in the user documentation: The lowest level, on top of which sits the CDM library, which serves API and Services communicating with the outside (Portal, TaxEditor). All that together I'd call CDM Server.

I suggest to stick to CDM Store for the database (and direct database access layer) in more technical presentations, and simply use Database for user documentation. )

Any other suggestions?

Did we miss any (new) products?

UTIS? (should stay UTIS or any other suggestions?)

EDIT Platform?

When to use "EDIT" or "EDIT Platform" and when to use "CDM"? (WGB: I'd use CDM only in more technical contexts, and only in questions that refer to the data model.)

EDIT MapService?
