Description

Hi Ben,

Yes probably you right. I didn't really go into the PersistentTermInitializerTest problem but tried it within eclipse with the new override.properties and it worked whereas in maven it doesn't

Caused by: java.lang.ClassCastException: org.hibernate.collection.PersistentSet cannot be cast to java.util.SortedSet

```

I will leave the test as @Ignored for now.

Cheers,

Andreas

Betreff: RE: [dev-cdmlib] I want to commit some major changes to cdmlib term loading, please could you confirm that this is ok?

Hi Andreas,

> For PersistentTermInitializerTest I had to create a new override.properties because for this test it looks like > we need term initializing. Or do I think the wrong way here?

I'm not sure what to do about PersistentTermInitializerTest, really, as running it side-by-side with the other tests (which use testing term initializer) results in some issues. I think disabling it using override.properties simply checks against the terms initialized by TestingTermInitializer, not actually testing the PersistentTermInitializer at all.

I just @Ignore -ed it, not a perfect solution, but the whole term initialization scenario is quite complex and I couldn't think of a better idea. Running the other tests properly is more of a priority, I think.

Cheers,
