fix #6219: delete of synonyms is performed with save in name editor

The preferred solution is to handle it similar to bulk editor where the deletion from database is invoked only with save. If this is not possible we need to warn the user that deleting will save as probably everything in the open NameEditor is saved at that point.

I think it would be nice to implement it in a way similar to the bulkeditor, therefore we have to reconstruct the name editor in a way that we add annotations to the elements to remember the operations. That needs some time (I would think 1 day), maybe we should do this in the next release. I will add the warning and next week the complete implementation.
