Description

in cdm_create_footnotes() the function `_is_original_source_type()` is used to suppress unwanted source types, this check should also be used in `handle_annotations_and_sources()`

by this only the following source type will be shown:

```
OriginalSourceType::Lineage,
OriginalSourceType::PrimaryMediaSource,
OriginalSourceType::PrimaryTaxonomicSource,
OriginalSourceType::Unknown,
OriginalSourceType::Other,

Works fine now and ticket can be closed.

I only wonder if only a citation micro reference is given (without citation reference) for a source that is to be shown, why nothing is displayed. Is this on purpose (actually only a micro ref with no ref does no make so much sense, of course, but may happen if used incorrectly by user) or is it unwanted behavior?
