Description Das Speichern eines TypedesignationWorkingsets geht erst wenn mind. ein Type angelegt ist. Andernfalls würde die SpecimenInformation verloren gehen, da sie nicht mit der Registrierung verküpft werden könnte.

fix #7942 using required flag and validation to prevent from saving without typedesignations

We have two options:

1. Show a message in the footer of the editor as long as the save button is blocked: "Editor can not be saved without a type designation"
2. Enable the "Save" button always and make the fields "Type status", "Kind of unit", "Collection", "Accession number" of the first row required.

I prefer the second solution.

What do you think, Henning?

Den zweiten Text verstehe ich sprachlich nicht.

proposed wording: "Typedesignation editor can not be saved without filling in at least the mandatory fields"

We agreed on using the required flag of the "Type status", "Kind of unit" field ("Collection", "Accession number" must not be required) and showing the text suggested by Henning.

"Type status", "Kind of unit" are already set to required but the flag is not evaluated yet.

Two warnings if required fields Kindof Unit & Type Status are not filled when saving.

Unspecific Vaadin popup: "The entered data in 1 field is incomplete or invalid"

Comment: this warning is acceptable because the more specific mouse over is implemented (see below)

Specific warning:

!Types

Mouse over: "Can't save as long as type designations are missing"

This is fine with me.

The ticket may be closed.

Comment:

For the second (third etc.) type invalid data (missing mandatory fields) can be entered but not be stored, this is okay.
