I am repeating according comments from the original tickets here:

#8370

Important for the review is to understand why the bug was introduced with cdm-dataportal|e89c1115 this was for sure in the attempt to fix another problem.

#8368

After fixing the problems in this code i noticed that this code is not generating any output at all.

I attempted to base the code on existing functions and wrote the following lines:

if(isset($specimen_or_observation->specimenTypeDesignations) && count($specimen_or_observation->specimenTypeDesignations) > 0){
    // $specimen_or_observation->specimenTypeDesignations are DTOs $specimen_type_designation_map = array();
    foreach($specimen_or_observation->specimenTypeDesignations as $stdDTO){
        if(!isset($specimen_type_designation_map[$stdDTO->typeStatus])){ $specimen_type_designation_map[$stdDTO->typeStatus] = array();
        }
        $specimen_type_designation_map[$stdDTO->typeStatus][] = $stdDTO;
    }
    $items['data'] = compose_specimen_type_designations($specimen_type_designation_map);
}

I removed them again and left the original code as it is. This code was introduced in cdm-dataportal|b3ac03bf

TODO: check if it is feasible to simplify and unify the code by using `compose_specimen_type_designations()`. (low priority)

I think we decided to move this issue to AK. Please correct me if wrong.

Please also decide which milestone it should go to, but definitely it should not be postponed to much as a good specimen is a more and more important requirement.

Yes, exactly. But I will definitely need Katja to help shed more light on the original requirements and expectations.

Milestone 5.15 seems like realistic perspective to me

According to note 13 this only needs a final check. So I put it on resolved in case it is fixed and only needs review.
