Please use human readable version for rule considered. E.g. by using getMessage().

@AK: which method do you use in vaadin editor?

Update: Sorry, wrong ticket, see #8410#note-8

If "rule considered" is not switched on also "Code edition" should be automatically be switched off in the preferences. This is in accordance with the name details view: if you do not enter a rule considered you can also not select a code editon.

Please have some more indentation for the sub-preferences on the name details view. Currently it is only ~1/3 of the checkbox. I think the checkbox of the sub-preference should start at about the position as the text for the main preferences

By the way: the label for "Secundum enabled (editing in d....) is not fully shown for some reason

I think all open issues are fixed.

- sub preference have more indent
- the label for "Secundum enabled..." is fully displayed
- enabling/disabling of subpreferences

Personally I would give even more indentation (see #8572#note-8). But this is up to you.

Generally we can close the ticket.
