| Description   |              |                          |               |
| copied from #8531 :  |              |                          |               |
| This mostly works but sometimes the behavior is still unexpected, but not that easy to reproduce.  |              |                          |               |
| Something that often seems to happen:  |              |                          |               |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Only Facts View is opened (Media View closed)</li><li>• Open taxon</li><li>• open distribution editor</li><li>• go back to taxon and close facts view</li><li>• go back to distribution editor and back to taxon again =&gt; facts view is open again though it should be closed</li></ul> |              |                          |               |
| I also had some more weird combinations where I closed the facts view and afterwards the media view was open again and similar issues, but this I could not reproduce.   |              |                          |               |
| Please check again intensively that the behavior is as expected even if often change the focus.  |              |                          |               |
| However, the main problem is solved. The remaining issues are not release relevant I think and could be moved to a new ticket.   |              |                          |               |
