Description
Sometimes users use links to websites within an image gallery. These usually are identified mime type "text/html" or similar. If this mime type is detected a warning should be shown that this image can not be shown in a viewer like the Univeral Viewer that we use for the data portals but can be shown only as link to an external website. Discuss: what about mime type "application" . Here it depends on the dataportal and the type of application if it can be shown or not. Andreas K.: can you put a list here which mime types should show the warning?
